Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)

It has been well said that individuals can do little to determine the length of their lives but that each person determines the breadth and depth of his influence. One cannot add one inch to his stature. Nor can he change certain of his features.

All of us can study the spiritual truths of his religion. Everyone can strengthen his faith in God and in humanity. Each can overcome hatred with love. We can broaden our service to mankind. In so doing, we can enrich our lives.

So, too, men can deepen their compassion and their understanding of people through prayer and fellowship with God. With a little effort we can alter our spiritual capacity and our character.

Time to Pull the Rug Out

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: The blistered Nasser in White House Staff Meeting; U. S. Made Mistake Of Not Getting Terms From Nasser When He Was Defeated; Nasser Now Swaggers As If He Won Suez War.

WASHINGTON. — In a recent White House staff meeting, President Eisenhower blistered Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt as if he were the No. 1 irritant of American foreign policy. Prime Minister Ben-Gurion of Israel couldn't have been more critical.

Eisenhower complained that the United States had saved Nasser's neck; now he was swaggering and blustering as if he had won the war singlehanded.

Reason for the presidential wrath was Nasser's stalling on his pledge to reopen the Suez canal. At that particular time he was refusing to let British and French salvage crews operate. Later he held up the departure of 13 imprisoned ships, then announced that no British-French ships could use the canal except under certain conditions, also announced ships would have to pay tolls direct to Egypt—despite previous plans that they be paid to a ship users' association or an international body.

He's understandable explosion focuses attention on the most crucial point regarding the proposed Eisenhower doctrine — namely, will it work? Will the Arab world be deterred by our mailed fist in one hand and the offer of aid in the other?

NASSER'S CRITICISM
Here are some facts members of Congress will doubtless want to examine before making a final decision, which is excellent in principle but faces some difficulties with Arab psychology.

The Cairo radio on October 14, 1955 proclaimed: "Justice and logic require that we now defend Russia and attack America, which has shown falsehood, deceit, and ill-will."

The Cairo radio is of course the official mouthpiece of Colonel Nasser's government. This statement was made at the very time Secretary Dulles was talking about a whopping loan to Nasser for the Aswan dam. It was also at the same time the United States was sending arms and foreign aid to Nasser.

Al-Ahram, the Cairo daily, published in a country where the press is required to represent the government, had this to say about American aid, on October, 1955: "America with all its millions and billions cannot win the heart of Egypt with diseased Point 4 chicks... Nor can America win the heart of Egypt with cheese, condensed milk, etc., which we know she is interested in getting rid of. America cannot win the heart of Egyptians with her worthless colored posters in which she attacks communism while she herself is not a democratic country."

These were not isolated editorials. They followed a pattern. Proclaimed the Cairo radio October 11, 1955: "American weapons provide the basic channel for the penetration of American influence. The Americans therefore invented what they called the Mutual Security Pact. They offer it to miserable nations forced by circumstances to arm, and they innocently say to them: 'All you have to do is sign this pact and American weapons will pour into your country without costing you a single cent.'"

Warned the Cairo radio on December 13, 1955: "Where is the prosperity enjoyed by Turkey after having received dozens of millions from its friend, the United States? In Turkey there is backwardness which has been made more so through American aid."

The critical broadcasts and editorials continued. Finally in July, 1956, John Foster Dulles, partly because of Egyptian criticism, partly because of the approaching U. S. election and the Jewish vote, suddenly withdrew the offer of money for the Aswan dam.

"Let them choke on their own fury," shouted Nasser, and seized the Suez canal.

WILL NASSER CHANGE?

The big question Congress will have to decide is whether Nasser is now ready to cooperate or whether he will revert to type. He is the chief leader of the Arab world. What he does, most of North Africa and part of the Near East will follow.

Eisenhower's private gripe at Nasser the other day was certainly justified; but it highlights one of the major mistakes of the President's administration. It could have made any terms with Nasser when he was cringing in a cellar during the French-British-Israeli attack. He lost the battle for the Sinai peninsula ignominiously. His army held out against tiny Israel for only six days. But now he is acting as if he were the victor.

In other words, Nasser has not changed. John Foster Dulles urged him to take American money when Nasser was getting huge shipments of Russian arms. Dulles rushed to London to side with Nasser when Nasser first seized Suez. Dulles even went to bat for him against our traditional allies, the French and British; withheld oil until they were out of Suez.

Despite all this, the Egyptian dictator is now back at his old pastime of playing Russia off against the United States.

So the big question Congress will have to decide is whether Nasser will now be influenced by a new offer of American aid, plus the Eisenhower doctrine of threatened force. Or will he figure it's all part of the fuzzy American policy of helping those who criticize you most?

UNDER THE DOME

House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas Gordon (D., Ill.) wants to sharply cross-examine outgoing Undersecretary Herbert Hoover, Jr., re the Eisenhower doctrine. Hoover reportedly made the decision to rescue Egyptian dictator Nasser after the Israeli attack without getting any promise from him about future cooperation with the U. S. A. . . . Sad-eyed Sen. Olin Johnston (D., S. C.) has declared privately that he'll vote against the Middle East plan even if he ends up a minority.

He doesn't believe Congress should hand President Eisenhower a blank check. Trigger-tongued Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) complains that the Eisenhower administration is stealing the Democratic program. "I don't mind if they adopt our ideas," says Humphrey, "but I don't like them to claim fatherhood."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted.—Matt. 5:4. The normal reaction to a time of mourning is a happy one. It is God's world and the good vastly outweighs the sad. Take one day at a time and cross no bridges before you get there.

Study Fan Letters For Clue to Slaying Hillbilly Crooner

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Police planned today to search through thousands of fan letters to hillbilly crooner Lonnie Barron for clues to his killer.

Barron, 24, a Richton, Miss., singer, recording artist, disc jockey and barn dance hall operator, was found slain Wednesday night in his home near here.

The singer, whose body was found surrounded by 10 cartons of admiring fan letters from women and girls, was shot in the head and in the arm.

A post mortem failed to recover the slug which tore through his head and police were searching the death scene for the bullet.

State police at the St. Clair Post said they were holding a 36-year-old unemployed carpenter for investigation in the case. They said the man's wife was a great admirer of Barron.

Showing of Lantern Slides by Late Dr. Swan Highlights Historical Meeting

The Saline County Historical society held its January meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Mitchell-Carnegie library.

President Louis Aaron read a letter from a group in Salt Lake City, Utah, primarily interested in history, containing inquiries relative to the local group's activities.

William Farley was invited by Mr. Aaron to speak on late developments in the Shawnee Hills Recreation association. Mr. Farley spoke on the need for membership in the group and he showed the association's new letterhead, a unique and attractive piece of stationery. The society was much impressed with the history and the historic sketches on the reverse side of the letterhead.

The following guests, Miss Hannah Bond and Mr. Bond of Marion, Mrs. Opal Dietz and Mrs. Wiseheart of Shawneetown, were introduced. Mrs. Wiseheart spoke briefly on a contemplated new venture in the area of tourist attraction and entertainment in the

Eden Resigns Commons Seat; Declines Honor

LONDON (AP) — Sir Anthony Eden resigned his seat in the House of Commons today and was expected soon to give up his Conservative Party leadership. Such a move would give Prime Minister Harold Macmillan a free hand in patching up the Anglo-American alliance.

Macmillan called in members of the Eden cabinet today for consultations, and there were indications he would form his new government by Sunday. Buckingham Palace announced the Queen would return from Sandringham to London "for a short stay" then.

There was a possibility the ailing Eden was bowing out of British politics altogether. Reports said Queen Elizabeth offered Eden an earldom in the House of Lords and that he declined. The honor is always offered outgoing prime ministers.

Eden's refusal of an earldom did not preclude him accepting honor at a later date.

Moves Next Door

A party spokesman said Eden and his wife would remain at Chequers, the prime minister's official country residence, "for about another week."

"No plans for after that have been made," he said.

Eden had represented Leamington in the House of Commons since December, 1923.

Eden still was technically leader of the Conservative Party although a new chief will almost certainly be elected soon. The prime minister usually leads the party.

Macmillan, who is reported planning to go to Washington soon to confer with President Eisenhower, apparently slipped into No. 10 Downing Street today unnoticed. His house next door at No. 11 has a connecting door.

Saline Associational Sunday School Rally At Big Ridge Sunday

The Saline Baptist Associational Sunday school rally will be held at Big Ridge Baptist church 5 miles east of Harrisburg Sunday at 2 p. m. It is to be a conference type meeting with the Rev. Wheeler Thompson, State Sunday School secretary, the speaker. He will discuss the Central Training school to be held at McKinley Avenue Baptist church Feb. 18 to 22, at 7 o'clock each evening.

Fire Damages Wash House

The fire department made a run at 5:45 p. m. yesterday to the home of G. L. White, 202 East McHaney street where a wash house was afire. The wash house and its contents were damaged.

Meek, Labor Official Oppose Any Plan to Increase Sales Tax

CHICAGO (AP)—Two spokesmen for labor and retail business voiced opposition today to any hike in the state sales tax.

Stanley L. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, said "We take a dim view of a sales tax increase at this time."

Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Assns., said his group would fight "from start to finish" any effort to hike the sales levy.

The 1955 Legislature boosted the state tax half a cent, to 2½ cents on the dollar. It also authorized cities to collect their own ½ cent tax.

Now there is talk that Gov. William G. Stratton may ask the Legislature to hike the tax another ½ cent or a penny, to answer mounting demands on the state treasury.

Johnson said the ISFL "reluctantly" went along with the 1955 increase, to meet the needs of public schools and to provide money to raise salaries of state and local government employees.

"To our disappointment," he said, "state employees got nothing." Johnson said the sales tax places the heaviest burden on wage earners, since they pay out a greater proportion of their incomes to meet the tax.

He said his group was "very cognizant of the need of revenue" but would favor a flat income tax over a sales tax hike.

Johnson conceded that a graduated income tax would be invalid under the present Illinois Constitution, but said a flat tax has never been tested and might meet constitutional requirements.

Both Johnson and Meek expressed disappointment that the voters failed to approve the proposed Revenue Amendment Nov. 6. This would have opened additional sources of money to the state.

Meek suggested that the state explore the taxing of service occupations and reenactment of the "use" tax, declared unconstitutional recently by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Prison Officials To Inspect Site At Lawrenceville

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Federal Bureau of Prison officials are expected to inspect a site here Saturday for possible location of a multi-million dollar prison.

Mayor George C. McFarland has been advised that Myrl Alexander, assistant to the director of prisons, and two other officials will make an inspection of acreage at the Lawrenceville Municipal Airport. The airport, also known as George Field, was a training base during World War II.

Olney, Ill., and Vincennes, Ind., have endorsed the Lawrenceville bid for the federal prison.

Sesser Man Burns to Death

SESSER, Ill. (AP)—An investigation is under way in the fatal burning of a 60-year-old Sesser man Thursday night.

Sheriff Paul Collins said the victim, Oscar Guyman, burned to death after his clothes became ignited. He said Guyman had been drinking with Fred Leffler, 62, and George B. Gray, 78, in a small store building where Gray lived.

Leffler and Gray were held on charges of intoxication, the sheriff said.

Coroner Barney Browning ordered an autopsy.

Fined

Clarabelle Whitehouse yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated when arraigned before Police Magistrate Vern Joyner Jr., who fined her $150 and costs.

Boy Admits Story is Lie

FAIRFIELD, Ill.—A 17-year-old boy who claimed this week he had murdered a man last September admitted Thursday that his story was a lie.

Glenn Eldon Totten told officials at Elgin State hospital, where he is a patient, that he made up the story as part of a plan to escape from the hospital. The youth already has escaped from the hospital twice, the second time being last week.

The youth was committed to St. Charles state school for boys last November after he was arrested for reckless driving while on probation for stealing a jeep. He was later transferred to Elgin State hospital when he complained of being ill.

Carter Favored Tonight Over Big Bob Baker

NEW YORK —It's "win or goodbye" for Big Bob Baker tonight.

The plodding Pittsburgh veteran meets young Harold Carter of Linden, N. J., at Madison Square Garden in a heavyweight contenders' fight, televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

"And if Baker doesn't win this one," said Manager Dusty Dettmer today, "I'll suggest he retire, and I'll definitely leave him. It'll be goodbye, as far as I'm concerned."

The pilot added hopefully, "But I have a feeling he'll finally catch fire and belt the daylight out of Carter."

His hopes were not shared by betting men. They made 22-year-old Carter the favorite at 9-5 because he is ranked third, three notches above 30-year-old Baker. Also because the young New Jersey Sunday school teacher was impressive in his last three starts, with a knockout over Bob Satterfield and decisions over Johnny Summerlin and young Jack Johnson.

Baker, a burly ex-weightlifter who once was the top-rated contender, had but three bouts in 1956 and lost two of them on split decisions to the now top-ranked Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Big Bob's lethargy contributed almost as much to those defeats as Jackson's windmill flailing. In his other bout last year, he outpointed Johnny Holman.

Dorrisville, Galatia, Raleigh Win Loop Games

Dorrisville, Galatia and Raleigh won in Midget conference play Thursday, winning from Broughton, Muddy and Ridgway.

Galatia beat Muddy 63-40. After three fairly even quarters of play the winners broke loose in the final frame to win decisively. Galatia led 14-6 at the quarter, 27-20 at halftime and 43-32 after three quarters.

Dorrisville was on top of Broughton all the way in gaining a 40-23 victory. Dorrisville held a 10-4 quarter lead, was in front 18-11 at the half and 30-15 after three periods of play.

Raleigh defeated Ridgway 56-37, pulling away with a big fourth quarter. Ridgway led 13-9 at the quarter, Raleigh held a 22-21 halftime lead and after three quarters Raleigh led 38-32.

Next week's schedule: Dorrisville vs. Muddy, Raleigh vs. Galatia, Ridgway vs. Broughton.

The conference tournament will be played Feb. 1-4 at Galatia.

Form Basketball League for Freshmen, Upper Grade School Boys

A basketball league for local freshmen and upper grade school boys has been formed with 12 teams, John Dotson, HTHS basketball coach, revealed today.

There will be six games played on Saturday mornings and probably other contests during the week, he stated.

He said the teams would be named after states of the Union and that high school basketball players would be in charge of the teams.

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade boys are joining freshmen in this league.

Special Citation To Be Awarded Losing Grid Team

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Many a winning football team has been honored in the last few weeks, but Saturday night it's the turn of little Sioux Falls College of South Dakota—which didn't win a game in 1956.

Sioux Falls' record of no wins and seven losses included an 89-0 rout by Huron.

But Saturday night the college will receive a "special citation for good sportsmanship" at the Washington Touchdown Club's annual dinner. Coach Jack LaSalle will accept the award for Sioux Falls.

Middlecoff is Defending Champ as Crosby All-Charity Golf Tournament Begins

PERBLE BEACH, Calif. —The biggest all charity event in the world of golf gets under way here today when the nation's top touring professionals teed off with celebrities from entertainment and sports in the annual $15,000 Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Tournament.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the defending champion and the current National Open king, is rated as the man to beat—but no matter how the golf comes out, charity will be the winner.

This is Crosby's special event, and he picks up the check for all the costs, including the prize money, housing for the professionals, etc. Every cent taken in at gate goes to charity.

But, as usual, the weather man stands in the way. The forecast has been for rain for the weekend—which is about par for the course for this time of year on the Monterey Peninsula.

The list of "greats" at this tourney can't be found anywhere else. It includes:

Military: Three generals: Omar Bradley, E. K. Timberlake and Bob McClure.

Stage and Screen: Bob Hope, Bob Sterling, Phil Harris, Buddy Rogers, Lex Barker, Richard Arlen, Guy Madison, Freeman Gosden, Randolph Scott, Dean Martin.

Bull Dogs Play Benton Rangers Here Tonight

High school basketball returns to Davenport gym tonight when Ralph Davidson brings his Benton Rangers to town for a South Seven tilt against John Dotson's Bull Dogs.

The locals have been idle since the Egyptian Holiday basketball tournament at West Frankfort.

Coach Lotson said he had no planned lineup changes for the game tonight but stated one new boy, Kinch Jones, a six foot junior, had joined the squad.

The Bull Dogs currently are all alone in the South Seven cellar with four losses and no wins. The Rangers have lost four, but won a league contest from West Frankfort.

Tonight's program starts off with a contest between the Bull Pups and the Benton freshman-sophomore team. An added attraction will be a ten-minute game between third and fourth grade pupils from Logan and Muddy schools at varsity game halftime.

Tomorrow night the Bull Dogs will remain in conference play, travelling to Mt. Vernon to tackle the big Rams.

There are two other conference games tonight, Mt. Vernon at Herrin and Marion at West Frankfort. Loop tilts tomorrow night are West Frankfort at Centralia, Herrin at Marion and the Harrisburg-Mt. Vernon contest.

Junior High Teams Win Two Games From Carrier Mills

The Harrisburg Junior high school won a pair of basketball games from Carrier Mills Thursday night, the games being played in the Harrisburg gym.

The local eighth grade team won 60-48, following a seventh grade victory by a 30-20 score.

In the seventh grade game Harrisburg took a 10-7 first quarter lead and was on front 13-9 at the half.

The local eighth graders held a 20-8 quarter lead and had extended the advantage to 45-18 by halftime.

Harrisburg will be idle next week, then Thursday, Jan. 24, will play at Metropolis and a week later, Jan. 31, travels to Marion.

Tournament play gets started early in February.

A DOCTOR for BLUE JAY COVE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

Copyright 1956 by Elizabeth Seifert. Distributed by NEA Service.

X
Aunt Cordy laughed comfortably. "So I came here to the Cove, and rented a small house, put an ad in the paper right off saying that home-cooked meals would be available at 'Aunt Cordy's dining room.' That's when the town began to call me Aunt Cordy.

"I was prepared to have to wait for a while for business, so I was well-flabbergasted to have two women show up for dinner on the very first day. I didn't have a grocery in the house!

"I can see those two women yet, their hats and gloves and neat blue suits—all set to eat spoon bread and preserves, fried chicken and gravy and potatoes. Well, they didn't eat it. Not that day. But it surely was a crisis. I had to think up a way quick to put 'em off, to bluff—so I told them, as convincingly as I could, that my reservations were all taken for a week in advance. After that, if they tell me their names, what meals they'd want, and when—I'd be glad to serve them. I took a school notebook of Alex's from the window and wrote it down all businesslike there among his spelling words."

Now she was laughing gayly, and Cass joined her.

"Well, of course I had to get busy then!" cried Aunt Cordy. "The women went away and spread the word that I was running a popular place—that the meals were delicious!—and by the first of the next week I had reservations for all the meals I'd have room to serve. I didn't take roomers then, you know. Just people who came to the Cove for the waters, got 'em a room or something, and wanted one or two or three hot meals a day. All that summer and fall, Alex would scrub vegetables, and I'd cook—and we lived in the kitchen."

"Of course this was 20 years ago, and right spang in the middle of the depression. Anyway, people kept asking me for rooms, but I simply didn't have any space. So I began to think about getting a bigger place."

"And to make a long story short, the Knapps were in on it, and the bank. That next winter I had a chance to buy this huge old house at a bargain."

"One of the arguments Dr. Knapp had made to me for buying this big place was that I could room and board out-patients for the hospital. And the first one Francy sent me was a man who was a cabinet maker and could repair furniture. He worked for me nearly nine months, taking his pay out in room and board. That was a big help."

"A week after we moved in here, a grocer here in town had his home burn to the ground. He came to see me the day after and we struck a bargain: I'd take him and his family in until a new house was built in return for the groceries I needed."

"But there was one day—a year or two after the war, that was, I'd noticed one of the girls going around with a paper and pencil. By the first of the week not a soul showed up. Cook, laundress, waitress—every manjack of them had gone to work at the new fertilizer plant up the river—where they were promised better hours and better pay."

"Well, that day I managed breakfast, and—again with Francy's help, and by combing the town—by noon I got some help in the kitchen. But I had to make 19 beds that day. I was sneezing my head off, and Dr. Knapp said it was an allergy. And so it was—to dust and feathers, of all things! "He rigged me up a scary-looking mask, and I went right on working at jobs no one else was around to do. By the end of the week—the longest week in my whole life!—he'd found some shots that helped me, and a few of my trained help had consented to come back—after an adjustment in hours and pay."

These stories were still being told when Alex came in—surprised to see them still in the parlor."

Alex made an elaborate stack of swiss cheese and crackers and grinned at Cass. "Was it something important?" she asked softly.

"Yes, it was! This man—he entered yesterday—" Aunt Cordy was over at the stove doing something with the deep well cooker. "We hadn't done much more than talk to him. But this evening when I saw him after they called me I knew at once that we had an epilepsy case."

"Ha!" said Aunt Cordy. Again Alex ignored her. "I know this chap was in a car accident—his so-called 'nervous condition' resulted from that. He'd had a nasty blow on the head and at the temple! I am sure there is some injury to the temporal lobe, and I'm almost sure that surgery will cure him."

Cass turned to her mother-in-law. "Did your husband have an injury?"

Alex glanced up at his mother. "I've been talking to Cass this evening," she admitted in a remotely calm tone. "I didn't want her to think he was really crazy. "My father," he said sternly to his mother, "did die in a mental hospital. When I was 12. You would never talk about it. To me."

"You knew," said Aunt Cordy, "that he had epilepsy."
